MODEL Y-2600

The FUNVISION computer video game is much more than just a video game -- it's a versatile state-of-the-art home video entertainment system. For your family enjoyment it can play a wide variety of challenging games, then in seconds you can change it into a powerful personal computer!

FUNVISION as a personal computing system

FUNVISION changes from a games machine into a serious personal computer and learning tool in seconds, simply by plugging in its optional BASIC COMPUTER CARTRIDGE. As a computer it offers powerful but easy-to-program 12K BASIC language, a massive 17K bytes of RAM memory and a rugged 48-key input keyboard. You can further expand its computing capabilities by adding the optional CASSETTE TAPE INTERFACE module, MEMORY EXPANSION module and PRINTER INTERFACE module. There's even an optional full size MOVING-KEY KEYBOARD, as well. In short, all the things you need for serious home computing!

FUNVISION as a colour video game

Because it is based on the latest microprocessor technology, FUNVISION provides outstanding performance as a colour video game. Its high-resolution video graphics (49,128 picture elements -- far more than other games) provides an incredibly realistic picture. Twin inbuilt joystick controllers have the ability to respond to 16 different positions -- twice as many as most other games! And best of all, it uses plug-in games program cartridges so you'll always have lots of exciting games to play! One game comes free with FUNVISION, for starters.
